German Troops Ordered Out Of Bulgaria

BALKAN FRONT OF NAZIS WIPE OUT

Romanians Seize Carpathian Passes in Battle With Germans

BULGARIA SAID ALREADY WITHDRAWN FROM WAR

By Wade Werner
LONDON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The German Balkan front caved in tonight. Bulgaria ordered Nazi troops out of the country and Romanians seized Carpathian mountain passes and battle with their former allies who were trying to escape the Russian onslaught.

The Bulgarian domestic radio, in a broadcast recorded by the United States Federal Communications Commission, said that German troops in Bulgaria already had been disarmed. Bulgarian forces and confirmed that Bulgaria had approached the United States and Britain for terms on drawing from the war.

Bulgaria's formal withdrawal from war was expected hourly, but the now radio indicated she already was good as out, announcing that had adopted an attitude of strict neutrality" and planned to disarm Germans who did not leave the country peaceably.

German ability to enforce this was an open question but there have been reports of extensive withdrawals of German forces from country in recent weeks, so that remaining might not be able to put up effective resistance, while seeking to flee from Romania would have to fight their way into safe sanctuary.

The broadcast Soviet statement concrete of the many current issues concerning the Balkans, said that was firmly held by the new Allied Romanian government, that old premier, Gen. Ion Antonescu under arrest in King Milos' palace and that Romanian troops now the Carpathian mountain passes had been the Germans' strongest hope for defense against the army.

An earlier report from the Italian press agency Stefani via the Swiss agency had said Antonescu been assassinated in the coup turned Romania from the Germans to the Allied camp Wednesday. General Hamic, head of the German military mission to Romania, and

TEXAS ELECTORS STILL IN REVOLT

Of 23 Apparently Plan To Vote For Byrd For President

JUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Let's take at the Texas Democrats as they enter the final stages of their presidential election. They took enough time out today to vote in a run-off primary on candidates for three congressional posts and numerous state and district offices but this had no bearing on the question of whether electors are bound to vote for the national party's presidential ticket.

This is a question over which two Democratic factions have been at each other's throats since the party split into two conventions May 23. It will lead to a new crisis at the state convention in Dallas Sept. 12.

The election situation:

Apparently 15 of the 23 electors voted at the "regular" convention to vote for Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, who has said he is not a presidential candidate. They base their stand on the ground that the Chicago convention turned thumbs down on demands of the May 23 convention on the two-thirds rule to restore that white supremacy plank heitten into the national platform.

The May 23 convention left them free to vote for some Democrat other than the national convention's nominee in event.

The remaining eight electors have filed Myron Blalock, Texas national committeeman, that they will vote for Roosevelt and Truman.

The pro-Roosevelt forces will seek at the Sept. 12 session to convert 15 anti-Roosevelt electors, binding

LAST OF GERMANS CLEARED FROM THE STREETS OF PARIS

Nazi General Signs Surrender Order, And 10,000 Give Up Arms

By James F. King
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The last enemy machine gun was stilled in Paris tonight. French and American infantry stalked the last few stragglers and snipers, and even the Germans admitted they had cleared out of the capital which they had held under an iron rule since the first summer of the war.

The German garrison in Paris that surrendered to the American corps commander and the French Gen. Jacques Leclerc was estimated at 10,000 men.

One German strongpoint still held out in the Champigny sector five miles east southeast of Paris and there was sporadic fighting with some small groups of Germans in the northeastern and northwestern suburbs. A number of isolated snipers were being hunted down.

As the military cleaned out the last resistance, French political leaders moved in to reorganize the Paris government, and Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's forces began the great task of helping to feed and run the city.

Food stocks enough to feed Paris for ten days were on the way to a population which had hungered since it rose last Saturday against the German garrison and bring the fight for freedom to a swift conclusion.

Even as the final shots of liberation echoed through the city last night, Paris threw itself into a carnival of celebration that equalled any in its long and often gay, often turbulent history.

Hundreds of thousands of Parisians, enjoying their first night of liberty in more than four years, surged into the streets.

The Marseillaise, the fighting national anthem, resounded along the Place de la Concorde and out through the radiating streets.

Shots sounded in every quarter. Some were from guns blazing at Germans who ignored the orders of their own commander to surrender, but mostly they were fired into the air in sheer joy of freedom.

Then Paris awoke this morning and went to work at the job of rehabilitation and to erase the scars of war, which despite the savagery of the last days of fighting were not so severe as first feared.

Black pillars of smoke towered on the west, where a wing of the Versailles palace still burned, and in all other directions around the edge of the city where the military forts blazed after being put to the torch by Germans.

The greatest damage was to buildings in the Luxembourg gardens, where the Germans made their main stand yesterday. The senate building was badly blasted, and some German bodies still lay in the streets.

Bullet holes scarred the venerable facade of the chamber of deputies, where for an hour yesterday afternoon 400 Germans barricaded themselves and made the last important stand until flushed by French tanks. Canons had torn breaches in the wall of the president's palace.

Associated Press Correspondent Edward D. Ball said Parisians looked well fed, and if there was any starvation it was not apparent among the hundreds of thousands who turned out to welcome the liberating armies.

The final order of unconditional surrender was signed at 6 p. m. yesterday.

BATTLE OF SOUTH FRANCE NEAR END

Americans Advance Up Rhone Valley To Cut Off fleeing Germans

IRUN, Spain, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Ten thousand Germans encircled by American and French forces around Belin, 30 miles south of Bordeaux, surrendered late this afternoon, French authorities in Hendaye said tonight.

The capitulation of the Nazis ended all organized German resistance in southwestern France.

American and French forces which had trapped the Germans had been hacking them to pieces when the Germans hoisted a white flag.

According to reports from Hendaye, France, across the frontier from Irun, the Germans evacuated Bordeaux Thursday and moved into the wooded Landes region, centering in Belin.

French authorities in Hendaye said the remaining German forces were too weak to try to break out and apparently were content to sit and hope vainly that a German army from outside might free them.

Other Germans in small groups high in the Pyrenees were reported waiting for the Allies to come and take them prisoners rather than risk death by traveling through patriot-held territory in an effort to get back to Germany. French control of the border prevented them from escaping into Spain.

Many Believe Nazi Collapse May Be Only Weeks Away

Interpretation By Kirke L. Simpson
World War Analyst

Events of this August week-end were so obviously snowballing to a crisis for Germany in Europe that speculation was rife as to whether total Nazi collapse might be only weeks, not months, away. Nor could Japan read the war portents with much less apprehension.

In France, Allied forces were swiftly weaving the struggle into an old familiar pattern that spelled German defeat a quarter century ago. German evacuation of all France west of the Somme-Marne line was so certainly in progress under pulverizing Allied attack that Nazi commentators admitted the retreat.

And even that line, the last short of German frontiers, was gravely menaced. Two vast and powerful armies were converging on a front where planes are dispersed.

A midnight supplementary communiqué said that Soviet marines landed at Valence, Black sea port at the Danube, and joined land forces in seizing huge stores of material in that town. The Germans threw away their arms and fled across the Danube, the bulletin said.

The Allies had a massive hand to the ground rapidly oldening the Nazi Seventh Army and driving closer to the Reich border.

French air opposition in the east was slight after a brief lull in the preceding three days.

From the heavy bombers over Germany, the medium over northeastern France and fighters and fighter bombers over the Seine the reports were identical—if any Nazi fighters planes anywhere. The bombers roared like Geysers ranged from light to intense.

One Nazi fighter was destroyed in the air and another on the ground in the operations against Germany.

SCHOLARSHIP OF EWINGS ACCEPTED

L. S. U. Board Formally Receives $35,000 Education-al Trust Fund

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 26.—(P)—Louisiana State University supervisors in regular session today accepted a $35,000 scholarship trust fund from Robert Ewing estate, honoring the late Col. Robert Ewing; creating a new "division of student life" and approved three major changes in faculty personnel.

The Ewing scholarship, presented by heirs of the late publisher, is to perpetuate and eventually increase to eight the two scholarships established early this year for $300 and $350. It will be administered by a committee including the university president and deans of men and women and two others still to be named, and matriculation fees will be waived for holders.

The new "student life" division will be directed by a "civilian commandant," still to be named, through whom all student activity officers will work, including deans of men and women. It will take in all non-academic phases of student life, such as social, housing, feeding and hospitalization.

The personnel changes, approved as submitted by Dr. W. B. Hatcher, new president of the university, were announced as follows:

Dr. H. V. Howe, director of the school of geology since 1931, was appointed dean of the college of arts and sciences to succeed Dr. W. H. Stephenson, who will continue as professor of history.

GOVERNMENT UPS ITS COTTON PRICE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(P)—The government announced today that the selling price of cotton owned or controlled by it has been increased 50 cents—or one half cent—a pound in a move to help bring market prices nearer the parity-price goal sought by Congress.

The new selling price is 50 cents above parity prices. The parity price for 15.16-inch middling cotton of standard density stored in the southeastern mill area is 22.5 cents a pound.

The government price exerts a strong influence on the market price.

Decision to increase the price was made by the War Food Administration, the agency which controls government-owned cotton held by the Commodity Credit Corporation, and the Office of Price Administration in connection with a provision of the price control extension act which directed the government to take "all lawful action" to assure producers parity prices for cotton and other principal farm products.

The margin of 50 cents will not be reduced prior to May 1, 1945, unless the price of cotton should average above parity in an amount and for a period of sufficient time to raise the question as to the adequacy of manufacturing margins under the ceiling prices for cotton textiles, which are being computed for major items on the basis of parity prices for cotton.

In that event, the sale price of government cotton would be reduced only in an amount sufficient to prevent the price from averaging above parity.

Break Across Seine On 200-Mile Front

Nazi 7th Army Almost Destroyed; Luxembourg And Alsace-Lorraine Warned That Attack Is Imminent

By James M. Long

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sunday, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Allied armies, having broken across the Seine river barrier on a 200-mile front, herded the once-indomitable Germans before them today in a battle of pursuit that swirled steadily nearer to the Reich's frontiers.

"The elimination of the German Seventh army as a fighting entity has decided the battle of France," declared supreme headquarters in warning the little duchy of Luxembourg and the French frontier provinces of Alsace and Lorraine that they soon "may become a theater of war."

"What there is left of the Germans in northwest France is hanging like meat on a butcher's hook, waiting to be cut down," said a high officer at British field headquarters.

Southwest of Paris there was brisk fighting on the northeast bank of the Seine between the American bridgeheads at Corbeil and Melun as the enemy strove to delay the American advance.

The ragged remnants of the Germans remaining on the southwest bank of the river at its mouth were frenziedly trying to cross in daylight as Canadian and Belgian troops closed inexorably in for the kill.

But all the German efforts were of a sporadic nature born of the knowledge of their ultimate futility.

Only the harried survivors of the Normandy debacle and a handful of divisions of the once-mighty 15th army guarding the rocket coast stood before the Americans, British and Canadians surging across the Seine over at least six bridgeheads northwest and southeast of Paris.

The British in a spectacular 40-mile forced march in six hours forced a crossing of the Seine at Vernon, ten miles northwest of the strong American bridgehead at Mantes, and turned loose another powerful force against the Germans scrambling from their channel forts.

And these forces—supreme headquarters said they now were capable of fighting only delaying actions from here on into Germany—were being pounded night and day by swarming warplanes whose pilots said they were in full retreat toward Belgium and the Rhine.

The German air force, possibly sensing that the game is up in France and these forces may have trouble even reaching Germany, threw its planes into some of the greatest aerial battles since D-day and lost 83 Friday, most of them in northwest France.

Few enemy planes were sighted yesterday, indicating that the groggy German air force no longer can keep up such furious fighting.

The big port of Le Havre was being abandoned by land and sea, huge convoys were on the move from Rouen and Dieppe toward Amiens and Reims, and pouncing

CATALOGUE OF SURPLUS WAR GOODS ADVOCATED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(P)—Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, proposed today—and the Senate accepted—a plan whereby the government would print and make available to citizens a catalogue listing surplus war goods.

"The people ought to have a chance to know what the government has for sale and how much it costs," Pepper declared.

"I had a talk with Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, recently and he said it only costs Sears, Roebuck and Company about 90 cents to turn out its big catalogue."

"The government ought to be able to point one cheaper."

Pepper's plan was embodied in the surplus disposal bill which the Senate passed and sent to a conference committee.

The average price of wine in England in the 12th century was a penny a gallon.

There is nothing more exhilarating than a long advance through enemy country with an armored column, never knowing for sure whether you will be able to sweep another 60 miles or whether the next moment you may have to stand and slug for your life to counter a Nazi ambush.

But it is as wearing as it is exciting and, added to the ordinary occupational hazards of war reporting, are the multiplied problems of transportation, and communications. The task of getting their news stories back to American newspapers is causing more gray hairs among correspondents covering General Patton's Third army than enemy shells.

One difficulty has been that every time our camp moves forward, the wireless equipment has been broken down and carted to a new location for reassembly. Thus, for many hours we have no major news channel outlet and it becomes necessary to fly the stories to London where they can be cabled back to the United States. In recent days, too, drastic field censorship has been imposed twice on the extent of our advances, forcing much hot news to cool off.

Correspondents have been living out of trailers ever since the Third army began its great blitz. We have had six camps in little more than two weeks, staying at each only two or three days.

It is estimated that 2,769 languages, exclusive of minor dialects, are spoken in the world.

WITH AN AMERICAN ARMORED COLUMN IN FRANCE, Aug. 15.—(Delayed)—(P)—Light housekeeping becomes a real problem in reporting army activities during such gypsy warfare as our cowboy and Indian march through France.

After riding several hundred miles behind rampaging tanks you can begin to feel the bogie wheel going around in your own brain.

There is nothing more exhilarating than a long advance through enemy country with an armored column, never knowing for sure whether you will be able to sweep another 60 miles or whether the next moment you may have to stand and slug for your life to counter a Nazi ambush.

and then hopping forward another 50 miles.

It has been almost a fulltime job for Capt. John B. Mayo of Tulsa, Okla., to reconnoiter ahead to pick out new camp sites and has had a few exciting moments. Once he was mistaken for a German by a nervous officer and had to hit the ditch while 15 rounds went whizzing past his ear. He later was rewarded with an apology. Another time he had a chateau picked out for a new work room and found a dozen Germans still living in it.

To get frontline news from this breakneck army you have to get up at 7 or 8 o'clock and attend the morning briefing by Maj. Jack Widmer of Denver, Colo., to get the general picture of the army situation.

Then you get out for a three to six hour drive over clogged roads to catch up with the advance armor. After getting the story, you have to return along roads still under occasional sniper fire from guerrilla bands of roving Germans.

You usually arrive too late for the evening meal and have to eat your ration in a jeep en route home. You get there covered with so much caked dust you look like the end man in a minstrel show and there still remains the major problem of the day—writing your story by the dimming flicker of a tired, 10-watt army light bulb and afterward fighting it through censorship.

GI BILL OF RIGHTS OFFERS SERVICE WOMEN OPPORTUNITY

Affords Advancement Possibilities Equal To Those For Men

Many young women are planning to adjust their formal education plans by enlisting in the service now to help win the war, and continuing their college or technical training after the war. The local WAC recruiting office has noted increased interest in this plan since the GI bill of rights went into effect last month.

This bill, which offers equal advantages to men and women in the service, provides that any person who has served 90 days or more, exclusive of certain specialized military training, and who has been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable, is eligible for educational benefits for a period of at least one year or its equivalent in part-time study. These benefits include up to $500 in tuition and other school fees such as laboratory, health infirmary, and library; and in addition a subsistence (living expense) allowance of $50 per month for single veterans or $75 for those with dependents.

Any veteran not over 25 years of age at the time of entering the service is presumed to have had his education interrupted, and therefore may easily qualify for these benefits. Other veterans may be declared eligible if, for instance, they were in school or pursuing a course of instruction when inducted; or they may be given a "refresher or retraining" course up to one year of training.

Veterans discharged because of actual service incurred disability are eligible for special benefits provided by other legislation.)

This education is not limited to college courses, but may include specialized training at a technical or trade school such as a secretarial course, laboratory, X-ray or dental technician, beautician, physiotherapist, and many other fields. WAC training and experience in many present army jobs will make these women particularly eligible for advanced training. Certain subsistence allowances will be made for those engaged in "implant" training at business establishments or factories which give apprentice training on the job.

Veterans may choose the time of instruction, and may select the school of their choice, with two limitations: the training must be started within two years after date of discharge or termination of the war, whichever is the later date. Also, the school they choose must be on the Veterans Administration approved list, in order to safeguard against exploitation by institutions which might plan to "cash in" on service people's benefits. The interest of the government is to see that the veterans "get their money's worth" in training of such recognized standing as will enable them to support themselves in the work of their choice, and for which they are especially adapted, after the war.

To aid veterans in obtaining jobs, the Veterans Administration explains it has "as its intent and purpose that there shall be an effective job counselling and employment placement for veterans . . . so as to provide for them the maximum of job opportunity . . . in gainful employment." With the veterans' preference already allowed under civil service, this places service men and women in an enviable position for obtaining post-war employment.

Further protection against unemployment is guaranteed service veterans by the unemployment clause of the GI bill, under which they are eligible for "readjustment allowance" for each week of unemployment not to exceed 52 weeks, and occurring within a two-year period following the termination of the war or the veteran's discharge. This benefit is not payable, however, if the veteran is receiving vocational rehabilitation training or education from the Veterans Administration, or if he has failed to apply for such training, or if he has left suitable work voluntarily without good cause, or is suspended or discharged for misconduct in the course of employment."

Other benefits to veterans include eligibility to secure through the Veterans Administration, a guarantee of a loan, not to exceed 50 per cent of the amount needed to purchase a home, farm or business property in no event will the sum guaranteed exceed $2,000. The Veterans Administration will pay the first year's interest, and thereafter it may not exceed 4 per cent per annum, and must be repaid within 20 years. Loans must meet the same prescribed requirements as civilian loans; of character, earning ability, and responsibility.

Certain provisions and limitations may have to be added to the bill as experience shows their necessity. The spirit of the GI bill of rights, (service men's readjustment act of 1944) however, is intended "to make the path of civilian life smoother and more secure for the men and women released from service."

IRISH WIVES LEAVE FOR NEW HOMES IN AMERICA

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland, Aug. 26.—(UPI)—More than 70 Londonderry women, wives of Americans at the United States naval base here, left recently for new homes in the United States.

A score carried babies as they boarded the 15,000-ton "Marine Haven" while a naval band played and the Irish crowd ashore sang "Auld Lang Syne."

They are subject to poor digestion or peptic ulcers due to the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic application or local infection. SSS Tonic has got to them and scientific results prove that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health like you feel like yourself again." A survey of the port of New Orleans is being made by two nationally known industrial engineering firms, with the objective of reducing operational cost and thereby reducing the cost to shippers, E. O. Jewell, general manager of the board of port commissioners, announced today.

"If we can save money in our operations we can pass the savings on to the shippers and in that manner maintain a greater volume of business in the future," Mr. Jewell said. "New Orleans is not a high cost port now, but we want to reduce our costs still further wherever we can."

The survey of the operating procedures and port facilities is being prepared by Stone and Webster Engineering Corporation, of Boston and New York. This firm will also propose post-war improvements to the port so as to further reduce operation cost and ultimately the cost of the use of the port by shippers.

The business management and accounting work of the port is being surveyed by Main and Company, auditing firm of Pittsburgh, Pa., Mr. Jewell announced.

"We are doing a good job with our present set-up but after an organization has been functioning for 44 years it is time to take stock," he said. "We need a fresh and unbiased approach to our problems."

GI BILL OF RIGHTS OFFERS SERVICE WOMEN OPPORTUNITY

Affords Advancement Possibilities Equal To Those For Men

Many young women are planning to adjust their formal education plans by enlisting in the service now to help win the war, and continuing their college or technical training after the war. The local WAC recruiting office has noted increased interest in the plan since the GI bill of rights went into effect last month.

This bill, which offers equal advantages to men and women in the service, provides that any person who has served 90 days or more, exclusive of certain specialized military training, and who has been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable*, is eligible for educational benefits for a period of at least one year or its equivalent in part-time study. These benefits include up to $500 in tuition and other school fees such as laboratory, health infirmary, and library; and in addition a subsistence (living expense) allowance of $50 per month for single veterans or $75 for those with dependents.

Any veteran not over 25 years of age at the time of entering the service is presumed to have had his education interrupted, and therefore may easily qualify for these benefits. Other veterans may be declared eligible if, for instance, they were in school or pursuing a course of instruction when inducted; or they may be given a "refresher or retraining" course up to one year of training.

"Veterans discharged because of an actual service incurred disability are eligible for special benefits provided by other legislation."

This education is not limited to college courses, but may include specialized training at a technical or trade school such as a secretarial course, laboratory, X-ray or dental technician, beautician, physiotherapist, and many other fields. WAC training and experience in many present army jobs will make these women particularly eligible for advanced training. Certain subsistence allowances will be made for those engaged in "inplant" training at business establishments or factories which give apprentice training on the job.

Veterans may choose the time of instruction, and may select the school of their choice, with two limitations: the training must be started within two years after date of discharge or termination of the war, whichever is the later date. Also, the school they choose must be on the Veterans Administration approved list, in order to safeguard against exploitation by institutions which might plan to "cash in" on service people's benefits. The interest of the government is to see that the veterans "get their money's worth" in training of such recognized standing as will enable them to support themselves in the work of their choice, and for which they are especially adapted, after the war.

To aid veterans in obtaining jobs, the Veterans Administration explains it has "as its intent and purpose that there shall be an effective job counseling and employment placement for veterans . . . so as to provide for them the maximum of job opportunity . . . in gainful employment." With the veterans' preference already allowed under civil service, this places service men and women in an enviable position for obtaining post-war employment.

Further protection against unemployment is guaranteed service veterans by the unemployment clause of the GI bill, under which they are eligible for "readjustment allowance" for each week of unemployment not to exceed 32 weeks, and occurring within a two-year period following the termination of the war or the veteran's discharge. This benefit is not payable, however, if the veteran is receiving vocational rehabilitation, training or education from the Veterans Administration, or if he has failed to apply for such training, or "if he has left suitable work voluntarily, without good cause, or is suspended or discharged for misconduct in the course of employment."

Other benefits to veterans include eligibility "to secure through the Veterans Administration a guarantee of a loan, not to exceed 50 per cent of the amount needed to purchase a home, farm or business property (in no event will the sum guaranteed exceed $2,000)." The Veterans Administration will pay the first year's interest, and thereafter it may not exceed 4 per cent per annum, and must be repaid within 20 years. Loans must meet the same prescribed requirements as civilian loans; of character, earning ability, and responsibility.

Certain provisions and limitations may have to be added to the bill as experience shows their necessity. The spirit of the GI bill of rights, (service men's readjustment act of 1944) however, is intended "to make the path of civilian life smoother and more secure for the men and women released from service."

Attention Health Authorities

We think it is high time that the health authorities of Ouachita parish were taking some action concerning the terrible conditions that prevail on Bayou DeSiard and Paragon lake or Phillips bayou. These two streams are infested with cesspools pouring into them from private homes.

Just because this condition has prevailed for years is no reason why it should continue to endanger the health and well being of all the citizens of Monroe. There is a statute on the books at Baton Rouge that covers conditions such as this.

We don't think it necessary at this time to call this potentially dangerous condition to the attention of the state department of health, for we think it is a matter that addresses itself at this time to local authorities and we hope that our local health agencies will immediately adopt such measures as may be necessary to correct this unhealthy condition and thus possibly avoid here the dreadful and tragic disease of infantile paralysis, now prevalent in other parts of our country.

If the citizens will only remember a few years back when this horrible disease hit here most of the cases were from the area in and near Bayou DeSiard and Phillips bayou. Medical authorities have not determined what carries this disease. Why take chances? Let's clean our streams from such filth.

LIBERATED PARIS

"When I saw the Germans in the Champs Elysees, I wept," said a young Polish lieutenant, a liaison officer between the Warsaw underground and the exiled government in London.

"I fought the Germans in 1939," he explained. "I saw my country fall. I watched the Germans overrun Warsaw. I witnessed their brutality and the suffering of my people. I escaped twice from German prisons. I went through all this dry-eyed. But when I saw the Nazis in Paris, I could not keep back the tears."

All over the world people have shared this young Pole's sorrow at the indignities which Paris bore under the occupation. Even those who never saw Paris understand the feeling. For Paris embodies so many of those qualities which the world calls "civilized."

No one claimed that Paris was a model city, but few denied that it was without a peer among world capitals. To some it symbolized gaiety or wit; to others it was the ancient citadel of free and vigorous thought, or the cradle of modern European democracy, or the center of art and fashion. It was not necessary to know Paris intimately to know that it was unique and unforgettable.

The stolid, square-headed, sadistic neighbors from the East felt these things, too. They coveted Paris and occupied it. But somehow they must have known from the first that they did not belong. They could neither become Parisians nor transform the city into a provincial German capital. No matter how much they strutted, they must have felt awkward and inferior.

The French have a theory, a credible one, that the Germans perennially make war on them because of an ancient and consuming envy. This may explain why Paris was spared much of the physical destruction that the Nazis visited upon other cities. It may also explain why the Nazis, when they found they could not possess Paris, resorted to insults and cruelty. Paris retaliated with untiring hatred and contempt of the invaders, but this could not prevent the sufferings which its residents had to endure.

Now, with liberation, that suffering has ended. It must have been a proud day for the liberators, a happy day for civilized men and women everywhere, a day of rejoicing for all Frenchmen. But for the Parisians who lived through four years of occupation it is a special triumph.

They are the ones the enemy starved and froze and burned. They saw friends and neighbors die from bullets and disease, saw the gaity of their city die with them. And they are the ones who know that the pride and spirit of Paris did not die, and that the Nazis, for all their guns, could not really capture Paris. The Nazis were never anything more than unwelcome tourists.

CHIVALROUS NAZIS

The trouble with the Americans, the British and the Canadians, in the opinion of Field Marshal von Kluge, successor to Von Rundstedt as German commander on the west front, is that they do not fight "according to high standards of chivalry."

"Our enemies—" the Nazi field marshal complains, "have planned and executed their operations against our continent on a purely scientific basis." They smash everything with their bombs and heavy weapons and then take over, placing Marshal von Kluge and his command under "heavy strain."

All of this borders heavy on the unethical and should be taken up for consideration in Washington. That is, if a Nazi general is qualified to pass authoritative judgment upon the standards of chivalry that should properly govern the conduct of modern warfare.

We're not the Nazis responsible for the development of the innovation of the mobile execution chamber in which thousands of Russian civilians died by gas? Also, Americans in Italy have gathered a unique collection of deadly devices which are the products of Nazi genius. Among them are cakes of soap, left about in abandoned buildings with cores of explosives which blow off the hands of users when some of the soap has been dissolved. Undersecretary of War Patterson also displayed to newspapermen a box of hard candies with an inner core of thermite which bursts into flame when dissolved in the mouth.

Apparently, these Nazis have varying concepts of chivalry, one which revolts at operations "on a purely scientific basis" and one which accepts the employment of fiendish devices to kill and maim the unwary.

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—A recent newspaper announcement that Charlie Chaplin is planning an overseas tour to entertain American service men makes my hackles rise. Consider his record:

He's the same man who donated money (reputedly $50,000) to the Communist Party in America. That party, at the time of the gift, was under foreign control and was dedicated to the overthrow of the American system of government for which our soldiers are fighting.

He's the same man who, for 30 years, has shirked American citizenship despite the fact that his success in this country has helped him to more than excess of five million dollars.

He's one of the three Hollywood stars who have made little or effort to contribute to the movie industry's soldier entertainment program. The other two, in case you are curious, are Mae West and Greta Garbo. He has never appeared at the Hollywood Canteen, never done a comic show, never been heard on one of the many all-star overseas broadcasts.

Unless GI Joe is less discerning than I believe him to be, no will give Chaplin's belated zeal a cold shoulder.

Well aware of the malaciousness in which Charlie has been involved, American service men will probably conclude that they are being made the fools of a not-too-shrewd campaign to curry favor.

May I just a heartless brute, but news that Sonja Henie had been killed by a spilt on the ice entered my life like a warning ray of sunshine after all, she wasn't seriously hurt! You see, I'm one of those people born south of the Mason-Dixon Line who never had a chance to master ice-skating as a kid. In adult years, I've tried. Lord knows, I've tried! But every time I've donned a pair of skates, that jarred a lot more than my moral fortitude. It's gratifying to know that even a world's champion can take a Bradie now and then!

In a current magazine, William Evy, the young actor who scored a hit in "The Eve of St. Mark," proudly tells what a cut-up he's always been. As proof, he cites his employment, some years ago, in a dairy store

BY HENRY McLEMORE

By Mrs. Henry McLemore

Henry, Jock Sutherland came to call last evening and we had a fine time reminiscing about the years when we all traveled together to football games. I hinted and hinted and finally took me up to the Bath and Tennis. To be honest, I think my last hint was "Well, Commander, why don't we go up to the Bath and Tennis—Dutch treat, of course."

Well, we ran into Frances and Margaret and Helen and some of their friends. We all sat together and I was so used to thinking of dock as a foot ball coach that I inadvertently addressed him as "Coach" a couple of times. Helen spoke up and asked whether the Commander used to be an athletic coach.

I told her that the only reason to go to the Bath and Tennis. To be honest, I think my last hint was "Well, Commander, why don't we go up to the Bath and Tennis—Dutch treat, of course."

All the girls were fascinated at the idea of anyone five feet two getting to be a great jump center. They talked on and on to Jock about basketball. Maybe I shouldn't have done it, Henry, but it certainly was fun to sit back and listen.

I just had a thought. What happens when you boil hard-boiled eggs when you boil them for an hour and a half? Maybe they're just such hard-boiled eggs that they don't give a good gracious! I guess I'll get out my old musket and have a set with those yeggs.

After that Cindy and I are going down and meet the Commandant.

All my love,

JEAN.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 3
Text: I Samuel 15:10-23

By William E. Gilroy, D.D.
We have seen Saul, first King of Israel, beginning auspiciously with fine and magnanimous elements in his character, nevertheless soon took the downward steps that indicated the triumph of his weakness over his strength. In this lesson we come to his consequent rejection from his kingly position, and we shall soon pass to his defeat in battle and his suicide.

It is necessary to discriminate in the details of a revolting picture of the ruthlessness of war. One might well ask, did a merciful and loving God, such as Jesus has revealed to us, really command the destruction of all the Amalekites, and of all that they had? Now go and smite Amalek and utterly destroy all that they have and spare them not; but slay both man and woman, infant and suckling, on and off, camel and ass." (I Samuel 15:3) That is too much like the ruthlessness of destruction today.

We must look a little deeper. We may note Samuel's justification for hewing Agag in pieces "before the Lord." He felt that he was performing an act of just retribution upon a murderer. If he was ordering the destruction of the Amalekites, it was with realization that the Amalekites would have similarly disposed of Israel.

Saul offers no word of justification of his sparing king, people and cattle on grounds of mercy. When he is caught in his disobedience he makes out that he has spared the sheep and cattle to offer them up as sacrifices to the Lord, evoking that great word of Samuel, "To obey is better than sacrifice." It is worthwhile to remember that that word was the word of a priest, Samuel was no formalist, but a man with genuine concern for Israel.

We must read the narrative of his sparing king, people and cattle on grounds of mercy. When he is caught in his disobedience he makes out that he has spared the sheep and cattle to offer them up as sacrifices to the Lord, evoking that great word of Samuel, "To obey is better than sacrifice."

A full report of the meeting between Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, and the two Chamber representatives, Mayor H. H. Benét and Mr. Holloman will be submitted.

C. A. Hunt, Veterans' of Foreign Wars representative who also accompanied Mayor Benét and Mr. Holloman to Washington, D. C., recently, will speak to the committee on the V. F. W. conference which he attended last week in Chicago, Ill.

This is as true today as in that work which he plainly regards as beneath a man of his artistic make-up. Living of the monotony of his job (he relates) he invited a number of his fellow art students from a Pittsburgh night school to an after-hours party in the store and spent the night savoring ice cream and butter over the walls until the place was a shambles. Presumably, Evy gave the interview that story to prove what a happy-go-lucky he is. I think it proves something else, too—something that would have been best dealt with in an old-fashioned seance in the Evy family woodshed.

It's the same man who donated money (reputedly $50,000) to the Communist Party in America. That party, at the time of the gift, was under foreign control and was dedicated to the overthrow of the American system of government for which our soldiers are fighting.

Attention Health Authorities

We think it is high time that the health authorities of Ouachita parish were taking some action concerning the terrible conditions that prevail on Bayou DeSiard and Paroud lake or Phillips bayou. These two streams are infested with cesspools pouring into them from private homes.

Just because this condition has prevailed for years is no reason why it should continue to endanger the health and well-being of all the citizens of Monroe. There is a statue on the books at Baton Rouge that covers conditions such as this.

We don't think it necessary at this time to call this potentially dangerous condition to the attention of the state department of health, for we think it is a matter that addresses itself at this time to local authorities and we hope that our local health agencies will immediately adopt such measures as may be necessary to correct this unhealthy condition and thus possibly avoid here the dreadful and tragic disease of infantile paralysis, now prevalent in other parts of our country.

If the citizens will only remember a few years back when this horrible disease hit here most of the cases were from the area in and near Bayou DeSiard and Phillips bayou. Medical authorities have not determined what carries this disease. Why take chances? Let's clean our streams from such filth.

LIBERATED PARIS

"When I saw the Germans in the Champs Elysees, I wept," said a young Polish lieutenant, a liaison officer between the Warsaw underground and the exiled government in London.

"I fought the Germans in 1939," he explained. "I saw my country fall. I watched the Germans overrun Warsaw. I witnessed their brutality and the suffering of my people. I escaped twice from German prisons. I went through all this dry-eyed. But when I saw the Nazis in Paris, I could not keep back the tears."

All over the world people have shared this young Pole's sorrow at the indignities which Paris bore under the occupation. Even those who never saw Paris understand the feeling. For Paris embodies so many of those qualities which the world calls "civilized."

No one claimed that Paris was a model city, but few denied that it was without a peer among world capitals. To some it symbolized gaiety or wit, to others it was the ancient citadel of free and vigorous thought, or the cradle of modern European democracy, or the center of art and fashion. It was not necessary to know Paris intimately to know that it was unique and unforgettable.

The stolid, square-headed, sadistic neighbors from the East felt these things, too. They coveted Paris and occupied it. But somehow they must have known from the first that they did not belong. They could neither become Parisians nor transform the city into a provincial German capital. No matter how much they strutted, they must have felt awkward and inferior.

The French have a theory, a credible one, that the Germans perennially make war on them because of an ancient and consuming envy. This may explain why Paris was spared much of the physical destruction that the Nazis visited upon other cities. It may also explain why the Nazis, when they found they could not possess Paris, resorted to insults and cruelty. Paris retaliated with untiring hatred and contempt of the invaders, but this could not prevent the sufferings which its residents had to endure.

Now, with liberation, that suffering has ended. It must have been a proud day for the liberators, a happy day for civilized men and women everywhere, a day of rejoicing for all Frenchmen. But for the Parisians who lived through four years of occupation it is a special triumph.

They are the ones the enemy starved and froze and hunted. They saw friends and neighbors die from bullets and disease, saw the gaity of their city die with them. And they are the ones who know that the pride and spirit of Paris did not die, and that the Nazis, for all their guns, could not really capture Paris. The Nazis were never anything more than unwelcome tourists.

CHIVALROUS NAZIS

The trouble with the Americans, the British and the Canadians, in the opinion of Field Marshal von Kluge, successor to Von Rundstedt as German commander on the western front, is that they do not fight "according to high standards of chivalry."

"Our enemies," the Nazi field marshal complains, "have planned and executed their operations against our continent on a purely scientific basis." They smash everything with their bombs and heavy weapons and then take over, placing Marshal von Kluge and his command under "very heavy strain."

All of this borders heavy on the unethical and should be taken up for consideration in Washington. That is, if a Nazi general is qualified to pass authoritative judgment upon the standards of chivalry that should properly govern the conduct of modern warfare.

Were not the Nazis responsible for the development of the innovation of the mobile execution chamber in which thousands of Russian civilians died by gas? Also, Americans in Italy have gathered a unique collection of deadly devices which are the products of Nazi genius. Among them are cakes of soap, left about in abandoned buildings with cores of explosives which blow off the hands of users when some of the soap has been dissolved. Undersecretary of War Patterson also displayed to newsmen a box of hard candies with an inner core of thermite which bursts into flame when dissolved in the mouth.

Apparently, these Nazis have varying concepts of chivalry, one which revolts at operations "on a purely scientific basis" and one which accepts the employment of fiendish devices to kill and maim the unwary.

This is as true today as in that

Emergency Foxholes Dot Landscape On Road To Chartres

ARTRES, Aug. 17.—(Delayed)—A year and a half ago there was a prominent in army circles a poster showing a soldier in a foxhole and beneath it the "dig or die."

The motto has been adopted by the army in France, which is going for heavier air attacks those the Luftwaffe was able to launch against American ground in the first dismal months of its campaign.

20 miles riding toward Chartres her main or secondary highways notice every 50 yards saplings are tied small bundles of straw are markers to show the way emergency foxholes and slit for German convoys under attack. As soon as Nazi drivers the sound of an enemy strafing he could swing the vehicle off road and dive into a trench.

There are thousands of these "mud-builders" for nervous convoys. Each hole is four to six feet long enough for two to four men are dug with the eye available use machine gun emplacements and some are surrounded barbed wire—perhaps to keep soldiers away, perhaps to keep cows from tumbling in the ditches.

Showing more completely the inability to cope with Allied forces than these futile and empty trenches, Hitler's men need planes to protect them so they can live. Instead, they are given holes in which to hide.

A group of war correspondents eat an evening meal in Chartres, the town was liberated. At the next table lonesome, tired Frenchmen. He was unshaven and his shirt was dirty and dirty. A rifle swung from shoulder—he'd spent the whole night hunting German snipers and shot a single Nazi. He was dead, and he was drinking more than a Frenchman should. He'd come in over and giving his correspondent a gallant hand and a kiss on each cheek.

Everyone was hoping he'd take a drink and fall asleep or go home kiss his wife, but you're always to a military ally with a rifle the waitress had just brought him, he was asked to share one. "Mais non, pas de gatou," he said, "which meant he could get without asking but he did have a kiss on each cheek."

I can't overlook a man, drink or who says that and means it loaded him up with cigarettes which left and he began to cry. He insisted on kissing every one of us again both cheeks.

We have the definite assurance that fill the auditorium to welcome him and get the thrill and inspiration of his message. Each week day morning,

Service Men's Center for a "confer-

This has always proven one of the most helpful features of his ministry.

We have arranged for a loud speaker so his voice will be called today (until the coming of the Son of man), and verily it is a day of sacrifice, and a day for the tithing of my people; for he that is tithe shall not be burned (at His coming). For after today cometh the burning: this is speaking after the manner of the Lord; for verily I say, tomorrow all the proud and they that do wickedly shall be as stubble; and I will burn them up, for I am the Lord of hosts;

and I will not spare any that remain in Babylon. Wherefore, if ye believe me, ye will labor while it is called today."

After considerable discussion, it was agreed to observe the following procedures:

1. If the announcement of victory comes after 6 p. m. and before 8 a. m., stores will not open the day following the announcement.

2. If victory is announced between the hours of 8 a. m. and 12 noon, stores will close immediately and will remain closed the remainder of the day and will open the following day as usual.

3. If victory is announced between the hours of 12 noon and 6 p. m., stores will close immediately for the remaining part of the day and will be closed also the following day. If the announcement is made any time on Sunday, stores will remain closed all day the following Monday.

4. If announcement is made on Saturday after 12 noon, stores will close immediately and will open as usual the following Monday.

Mr. Holland added that it was the opinion of those present that the observation of victory should be a period of quiet meditation and thanksgiving for victory over Germany and her European partners and of prayer for an early victory over Japan.

DENY JAP ENVOY BOTTLED FLEET

Congressman Says Kurusu
Caused Ships To Be
Held In Harbor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The state department declared today that Japanese peace envoys in the immediate pre-Pearl Harbor period never raised any question about the disposition of American naval forces.

The department issued a statement in comment on assertions made by Representative Magnuson, Democrat, Washington, in his home state.

The representative told the Seattle Post-Intelligencer there were reports both in Washington and on the Pacific coast that "the Japs made a 'pussy' out of the state department, contriving to have our fleet bottled up in Pearl Harbor where it could easily be dealt a death blow."

The state department's statement: "At no time did Kurusu during the course of his visit here in 1941—or did any other Japanese representative—raise a question with this government that the disposition of our naval forces in the Pacific was likely to prejudice the success of the conversations then taking place between the two governments."

"Furthermore the state department did not at any time raise this question with the navy or war departments."

Saburo Kurusu was the special Japanese envoy who came here for "peace talks" in 1941.

Magnuson's account of the reports he had heard was that Kurusu protested to Secretary Hull that American naval operations in the Pacific were giving militarists in Japan reason for blocking Kurusu's peace efforts.

"I do not know whether this story is true or false, and I don't venture to speak for or against it," Magnuson continued, "but I do think the charge should be answered promptly in Washington."

"The report on the west coast, and I've heard it in Washington, too, is that Kimmel (Adm. Husband E. Kimmel) was instructed to draw in the fleet, curtail air patrols and do everything else possible to dispel the notion that America was about to attack Japan. The report is that Kimmel was instructed to take all measures necessary to insure that the Japanese consulate at Honolulu would report to the Japanese government that the fleet did not contemplate any immediate action, which is—so the story goes—why some shore leaves were granted.

"Although I am a Democrat, this report and this situation transends purely party considerations and if the story is true, some of this heat certainly should be taken off Admiral Kimmel and General Short (Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, army commander in Hawaii at the time of Pearl Harbor). On the other hand, if it is not true, then the report should be promptly scotched by an immediate and official denial here in Washington. The circulation of such reports as this is not healthy.

"Not only are these reports not healthy, but they cause a lot of ill-founded rumors concerning the operation of the navy prior to Pearl Harbor."

BOMBERS

American losses for the day were 10 bombers and six fighters.

Some 1,500 heavy bombers and escorting fighters ranged over a wide area of Germany, battering vital oil targets for the third day in succession, and a smaller force of Flying Fortress and Liberators teamed with Allied warships' heavy artillery in a final assault to wipe out the stubborn German garrison holding out in the port of Brest at the tip of Brittany.

The tactical air force threw hundreds of fighter bombers into non-stop sweeps across northern France, blasting at some 40,000 Germans caught in the Seine trap and hunting down others on the northeast side of the Seine fleeing toward Germany.

Reports from Allied air bases on the continent indicated the German air force had lost its desire to fight after three days of desperate attempts to ward off aerial bombs falling on the retreating German troops.

About 250 American Liberators based in Italy bombed the Orléans airfield nine miles north of Bucharest in support of Romanian government forces defending the capital against German attacks.

Allied airmen, who destroyed 14 German planes in the air and on the ground during all operations from the west in the past 24 hours, against a loss of 78 Allied planes, said that the German air force once more was absent from the skies today.

DENY JAP ENVOY BOTTLED FLEET

Congressman Says Kurusu
Caused Ships To Be
Held In Harbor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(P)—The state department declared today that Japanese peace envoys in the immediate pre-Pearl Harbor period never raised any question about the disposition of American naval forces.

The department issued a statement in comment on assertions made by Representative Magnuson, Democrat, Washington, in his home state.

The representative told the Seattle Post-Intelligencer there were reports both in Washington and on the Pacific coast that "the Japs made a 'patsy' out of the state department, contriving to have our fleet bottled up in Pearl Harbor where it could easily be dealt a death blow," in 1941.

The state department's statement:

"At no time did Kurusu during the course of his visit here in 1941—or did any other Japanese representative—raise a question with this government that the disposition of our naval forces in the Pacific was likely to prejudice the success of the conversations then taking place between the two governments."

"Furthermore the state department did not at any time raise this question with the navy or war departments."

Saburo Kurusu was the special Japanese envoy who came here for "peace talks" in 1941.

Magnuson's account of the reports he had heard was that Kurusu protested to Secretary Hull that American naval operations in the Pacific were giving militarists in Japan reason for blocking Kurusu's peace efforts.

"I do not know whether this story is true or false, and I don't venture to speak for or against it," Magnuson continued, "but I do think the charge should be answered promptly in Washington."

The report on the west coast, and I've heard it in Washington, too, is that Kimmel (Adm. Husband E. Kimmel) was instructed to draw in the fleet, curtail air patrols and do everything else possible to dispel the notion that America was about to attack Japan. The report is that Kimmel was instructed to take all measures necessary to insure that the Japanese consulate at Honolulu would report to the Japanese government that the fleet did not contemplate any immediate action, which is—so the story goes—why some shore leaves were granted.

"Although I am a Democrat, this report and this situation transcends purely party considerations and if the story is true, some of this heat certainly should be taken off Admiral Kimmel and General Short (Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, army commander in Hawaii at the time of Pearl Harbor). On the other hand, if it is not true, then the report should be promptly scotched by an immediate and official denial here in Washington. The circulation of such reports as this is now being held in connection with the death last July 4 of Ernestine Young, Negro, has confessed his part in the slaying of his neighbor, Sheriff Milton Coverdale declared last night.

Roger Young, accused slayer and husband of the dead woman, and Louvonia Anderson, wife of Eli Anderson, allegedly confessed their parts in the case soon after their arrest in July, but Anderson had maintained silence concerning the killing until yesterday.

The body of Ernestine Young was found July 5 on a roadside on Hardtimes plantation north of here. Sheriff Coverdale said the investigation revealed Young and the Andersons had driven to Jim Bennett's place at Five Points July 4. Young's wife was there.

Young was said to have beaten his wife in a lot near Bennett's and then put her in a truck driven by Anderson.

It was perhaps significant, however, that the Allied command had given no intimation whatever for three days on the activities of the mechanized American task force which in the first week of the August 15 invasion drove 140 miles deep into the enemy's east flank to Grenoble.

(Some unconfirmed border reports have placed this force as far northward as the Swiss-French frontier, but a swing southwest down the Isere river from Grenoble to the Rhone would be a logical development.)

The Germans claimed their armor was counterattacking the American attempts to bottle up the narrow Rhone escarpment, but such a commitment probably would cost the forces involved their last chance to get out northward to the Reich past the Swiss border.

Already the American invasion perimeter was more than 300 miles in extent from the Rhone delta area through Grenoble and Briancon, and down to Antibes on the coast beyond Cannes.

Seventh army columns aided by French patriots appeared to be roaming widely, seeking out and destroying the disorganized German groupings wherever they could be found. Both in the lower Rhone valley after the fall of Avignon, Arles and Tarascon, and in the area beyond Grenoble, the situation was comparable to that in Brittany after the first American breakthrough from the Normandy beachhead.

The routed Germans had been broken into scores of small bodies so widely dispersed that hundreds of Allied planes were searching out the whole zone ahead of the ground forces but rarely finding targets on the roads.

Determined resistance-to-the-death was found only in surrounded forces such as those at Toulon and Marseille. At both those big ports, the Allies reported continuing progress.

The French said the naval arsenal at Toulon had been seized and all pockets east of the naval base had been cleaned out, while in Marseille they continued to clear resistance points and were attacking the Germand-held Notre Dame de la Garde area.

"We do not know how much of Field Marshal Von Kluge's army escaped from the Normandy trap and is still fighting in the Seine loop northwest of Paris," he said. "The enemy must have gotten a few guns, transport and other equipment across on the ferries still operating across the Seine."

Von Kluge's strategy seems to be to split his forces between the Pas de Calais "buzz bomb area" and the east bank of the Seine northwest of Paris.

"Across the Seine we are meeting like meat on a butcher's hook waiting to be cut down."

Miss Vida Snow Drew And Ens. Lorain Armstrong Married At Church Here

Reception Follows Impressive Ceremony

Rev. Hastings officiates at Baptist Church; Couple Leaves for New Orleans

Claiming prominence among the many distinctive nuptials of the season was the wedding of Miss Vida Snow Drew, daughter of Mr. Richard Morgan Drew and the late Vida Kennon Drew, and Ens. Lorain Blount Armstrong, United States navy air forces, son of Mrs. M. A. Armstrong and the late Mr. Armstrong of Delhi, La., Wednesday, August 23, at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the First Baptist Church of Monroe, with the pastor, the Rev. L. T. Hastings officiating in the presence of a large concourse of friends.

Beauty and dignity characterized the setting for the impressive ceremony. Palms and southern smyrlax offered a verdant background for artistic arrangements of a profusion of beautiful flowers. Smyrlax was used in front of the Baptistry and choir loft and climbed gracefully around the tall columns supporting the balcony. Palms were arranged effectively at the end of the steps leading to the altar and they were combined with smyrlax with considerable artistry at the sides of the improvised steps used by the bridal party.

White gladioli, pom pom white asters and fern overflowed from tall wrought iron urns that were placed at vantage points between the chancel and myriad cathedral tapers that burned in wrought iron candelabra. The same exquisite effect was gained in the choir loft. In the Baptistry were picturesque orchid displays holding feverfew, white pom pom asters and clematis.

The pews were marked with sprigs

Miss Cornet Entertains For Miss Mary Mulhern

A lovely complement to Miss Mary Mulhern, who is soon to become the bride of Pvt. Bill Fox of Columbus, Ind., was the buffet supper Thursday evening at the Monroe Recreation Center, 1700 South Grand street, with Miss Mary Elizabeth Cornet and Mrs. Hayward Phillips, co-hostesses.

Miss Mulhern was particularly lovely on this occasion wearing a light blue figured triple sheer model with a corsage of pomponio roses and tube roses presented her by the hostesses. She also received a set of crystal and sterling salt and pepper shakers as a gift from Miss Cornet and Mrs. Phillips.

Pink Radiance roses and rainbow daisies, artistically arranged at various places around the silver-appointed tables mounted in the center, added to the charm of the reception room.

The buffet table, from which a delicious supper course was served, was a thing of beauty with the tiered white wedding cake, complete with dainty bride and groom and with pink perennial peacock and lily ferns arranged at the base. Tall pine tapers added dignity to the table, appointed with crystal and pink and white china.

Following the serving of the cake by Miss Mulhern, guests mingled in the living room where they enjoyed a conversation hour.

Friends present to share this pleasure with the hostesses were Misses Frances Smith, Gladys Emma Whitfield, Olive Lusk, Ella Peat Sutton, Geneva Castles, Eleona Brinsmade, Mary Theresa Doyle, Freda Michel, Winifred McWhorter, Marguerite King, Nedra Caldwell, Doris Robinson, Lucille Wallace, Maty Benoit, Helen Beaufort, Monique Coates, Clovis Crighton, Sara Guy, Madeline Hayes, Elizabeth Ann Mulhern and Mesdames Carl Fritz, Alyne Novack, Carl Huiman, Russ Brown and Mrs. A. ## Books On Background Of War Available

Have you ever been confused about the pronunciation of a strange name in the war news? When a new personality is mentioned do you wonder who he is and why he is important? Are you interested in biographical sketches of the author of the story you are reading? Do you know the location of that newly mentioned island where another battle is being fought? Are you eager to learn more about persons and places in the news? Do you always know just the right word to use?

The Ouachita parish public library has many reference books available which give a background of war in reading or in conversation. Among the most useful are:

"Current Biography" published monthly is a collection of comprehensive biographies of men and women in the news. Each sketch is usually accompanied by a recent photograph; pronunciation of names are given, and interesting human facts are related.

Another ready reference is "Webster's Biographical Dictionary." This is a volume of names of noteworthy persons, past and present, with pronunciations and concise biographies. Webster's new "Dictionary of Synonyms" is a fascinating book of discriminated synonyms and antonyms for one to whom words have any attraction.

"Abbrev." (a dictionary of abbreviations) is another valuable reference aid. Never before has there been compiled within a single volume all the many different abbreviations which business people, writers, scholars and laymen use so frequently.

Other indispensable reference books which the public library has available in order to answer the numerous daily queries are: "Twentieth Century Authors," Kunitz and Haycraft; "Who's Who in America," "Who's Who in Latin America," "Album of American History" and "Atlas of American History," James T. Adams; "Hammond's New World Atlas"; "Who's Who in Aviation," "Famous First Facts," Kane; "American Mottoes and Slogans," Shankle; and "Still More Toasts," Muller.

RED CROSS NURSE'S AIDES

Class Of Nurses' Aides Graduates

There is hard work in the life of an American Red Cross Nurse's Aide-work that is essential in filling the desperate needs of hospitals. With thousands of Nurse's Aides assisting in institutions all over the United States, the number is not sufficient to meet the great demand of the government.

Interest continues to be manifested in this city in encouraging more women to participate in this field of service. The response to government calls is answered by constant study and preparation to render valuable work.

Another class of Nurse's Aides was graduated Monday, August 14, in the home of Mrs. Travis Oliver, with Mrs. D. T. Milam, head of the volunteer service of the Ouachita chapter, American Red Cross, giving a short and impressive talk. Graduates were presented their well-earned caps and diplomas at this time.

This marks the sixth class in this city to complete its requirements for graduation. Seventy-six women have received diplomas. Many more on to other hospitals throughout the country, and local institutions have had Nurse's Aides transferred from other places.

Candidates must go through a period of intensive training requiring an 80-hour course in which Mrs. James Miller, graduate nurse, gives instruction. Training is received at the St. Francis Sanitarium under the supervision of Miss Dryden, superintendent of nurses there.

Attending the graduating ceremony of this August class were Mrs. Milam, Mrs. W. J. Vazeley, secretary of the Ouachita parish chapter of the American Red Cross, Mrs. Carl McHenry, secretary of the Nurse's Aide committee, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Oliver.

An informal tea following the ceremony was a gracious courtesy, which helped to make the occasion a memorable one.

The list of graduates includes: Mrs. Gloria Smith, Mrs. Pansy Mallette, Mrs. Jo Low, Mrs. Hazel Thompson, Mrs. Dorothy Holden, Miss Joan Biardman, Mrs. Mary Alfred, Dorothy Corry, Miss Sally Ward, Miss Sybil Hargrove.

A/C Percy Lee Pace, who is en-tuned at Lubbock, Texas, is en-tuned for a 15-day furlough with his wife infant son, who was born Aug. 21.

Public Welfare On Federation Program

Objectives And Procedure Being Followed Outlined By Committee Chairman

Rapid growth in the significance of public welfare is being emphasized in the program of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, state president of the organization, points out that the interest of many local units of the national federation has taken a definite trend toward developing this phase of the organization's outline of activities.

Something of the scope of work and plans in connection with this phase of the federation's activities may be gleaned from the objectives and procedures outlined by Mrs. Robert H. Turner of Independence, Kan., who is chairman of the welfare department of the federated clubs.

Units throughout the nation are asked to consider possibilities of increased accomplishments in the necessary and continuous interests in child welfare, community service, crime control and aid to the physically handicapped. A second factor, being given special consideration, is the value of clubs cooperating with war service personnel in matters pertaining to the public welfare, with special interest centered in housing, consumer problems, nutrition, nursing, industry and agriculture. Of vital importance, Mrs. Turner points out, is the strengthening of the present program of public welfare to meet post-war needs.

How effectively such a broad plan may be carried out will depend largely upon the use of practical and systematic procedures. According to the public welfare department chairman, added emphasis should be placed upon home training in health and character development, maternal care and child care. A well-baby clinic should be considered a "must" in every community. In addition, provision should be made for day nurseries, recreation programs and employment of safety guards for every boy and girl.

In considering community service, several factors should be taken into account, such as budgeting local interests comprising matters on which the town has substantial unity so that it can act effectively, and developing the broadest possible base of unified welfare interest.

Attention is called to public health in matters of water and milk supply, sewage disposal and control of communicable diseases. Clubs are asked to cooperate with joint activities of schools, health departments or private agencies. Cooperation should not be limited to the community, Mrs. Turner says. It should extend to other towns and to larger units of parishes, states and nation.

In helping to control crime, clubs are asked to study causes of delinquency, form a coordinating council to help tide possible delinquents through the crucial stage trending toward court procedure; restore self respect and readjustment to society youthful delinquents, adult probationers and those who have completed jail or prison terms; work with all remedial and preventative agencies in matters pertaining to intoxicants, narcotics and sex hygiene.

In aiding physically handicapped, Mrs. Turner suggests that federated clubs cooperate with state organizations for crippled children and with the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis; assist with surveys, clinics, developing methods of vocational and economic adjustment toward more normal living. She also says that there is fine opportunity to help by cooperating with the American Society for the Hard of Hearing, working for more lip-reading courses, and examining local and other agencies in examining tonsillectomies and other possible causes of hearing difficulties.

Clubs should give their support to national and other agencies working for the benefit of the blind by raising funds for the purchase of seeing-eye dogs, Braille games and magazines and talking books. They should urge the support of house resolution No. 239 for aid to the handicapped. Members are asked to write to Congressman A. B. Kelley for a copy of the resolution.

Post-war service included in the public welfare field emphasizes the furthering of a program with the realization that it is one of the most fundamental and unifying factors in the post-war plans. The work for child welfare must meet the demands of developing the best possible citizens of tomorrow; community interests must be unified and strengthened with the realization that the community is a unit in a world community and must not be a weak link in the chain.

The greatest conservation is human conservation, Mrs. Turner concludes. When all are needed to replace war losses, greater effort must be made in human rehabilitation, she adds. She offers this suggestion to club women: "Work for the future needs in a way that will meet the challenge of the quotation by Raymond B. Fosdick. We are still heirs of all ages that have gone, but we are no less truly the ancestors of all the ages that are to come."

Public Welfare On Federation Program

Objectives And Procedure Being Followed Outlined By Committee Chairman

Rapid growth in the significance of public welfare is being emphasized in the program of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, state president of the organization, points out that the interest of many local units of the national federation has taken a definite trend toward developing this phase of the organization's outline of activities.

Something of the scope of work and the broadest possible base of unified welfare interest.

Attention is called to public health in matters of water and milk supply, sewage disposal and control of communicable diseases. In aiding physically handicapped, Mrs. Turner suggests that federated clubs cooperate with state organizations for crippled children and with the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis; assist with surveys, clinics, developing methods of vocational and economic adjustment toward more normal living. She also says that there is fine opportunity to help by cooperating with the American Society for the hard of hearing, working for more lip-reading courses, and assisting local and other agencies in examinations, tonsillectomies and other possible causes of hearing difficulties.

"How's your invasion going?"

THIS seems to be doing all right.

On June 6th, this young fellow tackled the biggest, toughest, most audacious military venture of all time—and he's pulling it off.

But how's our invasion going?

We've got one on our hands—just as much as any soldier. Don't think for a minute that every one of us here hasn't a personal share in the tremendous job of breaking into Hitler's "Fortress Europe" and battering down the Wehrmacht.

There's not much glory goes with our part of the job. Not much pain or danger, either. Our part is to pay—to pay with cash instead of blood. Our part is to buy War Bonds.

But if you have the idea that our part isn't important—that the little bit that you personally can do—that the Bonds you buy don't really matter very much—get it out of your head.

The supreme military effort of the war must be matched by a supreme financial effort here. That means every man and woman in this country has got to put more money into Bonds—oftener—than ever before in this whole conflict!

Make no mistake—we've got to get that money up, now!

If you want to know how the Invasion's going—don't expect to get the whole story from your paper. Look at your own Bond buying—for a big part of the answer!

And here are 5 more reasons for buying Extra War Bonds!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $1 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds help keep prices down.
4. War Bonds will help win the Peace by increasing purchasing power after the War.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

DETROIT CRUSHES BROWNIES, 5 TO 0

York's Two Homers, Overmire's 6-Hit Pitching Too Much For St. Louis

By Frank Kenessey

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—(AP)—A pair of mighty home run swats by Rudy York, six-hit pitching by lefthander Frank (Stubby) Overmire and Mark Christman's two-run error spelled a 5 to 0 victory for the Detroit Tigers over the league-leading St. Louis Browns, suffering their third successive shutout defeat.

Taking their second straight verdict from St. Louis, the Tigers fanned a growing pennant fever through a crowd of 13,665 by narrowing to four games their distance out of first place and taking over second in the standings, at least tonight's Yankee-Senators game at Washington.

Although there are only two night games booked, Captain Wilson said that attempts were being made to arrange for a change in plans so that other games could be played under the lights.

Negotiations for bringing the games to the college stadium had been in progress for some time between the physical training director here and Commissioner Rodriguez.

Meanwhile, Coach Clyde Funderburk put his men through their first full week of workouts at the practice field on the post. Brisk workouts in fundamentals and lining up of plays marked the initial week.

That this year's club will be a faster and heavier team than last year's outfit was expressed by Coach Funderburk. There was every likelihood that Funderburk will put a 200-pound line and 185-pound backfield on the gridiron for its opening encounter.

One of the standout performers in the early workouts was Don Harris, former quarterback with the University of Missouri, and teammate of Paul Christman, All-American back. After two years with the Missouri team, Harris, who was all-Northeast High School Conference quarterback before entering the college, was called into service. Only 23, Harris, fast and chunky, is looked upon by Funderburk as the key man in his offensive drive. Harris also played on the Missouri team which lost to Georgia Tech in the Sugar Bowl in 1940.

U. S. NET SUPERIORITY FACING CHALLENGE OF THREE FOREIGN STARS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The weakest field to enter the National Tennis Championships in many years may produce the best chance for a foreign triumph since England's Fred Perry beat Don Budge in the 1936 final.

That's the picture drawn by Holcombe Ward, United States Lawn Tennis Association president, of the 63rd National Championships which start next Wednesday and end Labor Day at Forest Hills.

The foreign "threat" consists of three players—Ecuador's bounding Pancho Segura, and the Vega brothers, Rolando and Armando, of Mexico—but Ward believes they may take both the singles and doubles titles. Segura, who has won most of the summer tournaments, is one of two players to beat in singles. The other is Navy Lt. Don McNeill, the 1940 National champion.

Last year's winner and runner-up, Lt. Joe Hunt and Ensign Jack Kramer, were kept out of the tourney by naval duties.

Contenders in the men's singles include Billy Talbert of Indianapolis, Segura's leading rival this summer; fifth-ranked Lt. Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, Sgt. Frankie Parker, time-tied Sidney B. Wood Jr., and a few promising young players.

Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, twice women's singles winner, has performed inconsistently in the summer tournaments and the next five in the ranking are conceded chances twice runner-up to Miss Betz: Doris Hart, Margaret Osborne, Dorothy May Eunby and Mary Arnold.

ARMED FORCES GET BULK OF SUPPLIES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(P)—The armed services now are purchasing fully 90 per cent of all sports and game equipment produced in the United States—and civilians will have to be content with their present meager supply yet while.

Summarizing data collected from the army and navy, the Office of War Information disclosed today that the war department annually buys enough baseball equipment to outfit 50,000 regular teams and twice as many softball teams. Navy purchases could total 11,000 hardball and 22,000 softball teams.

Sports and recreational equipment bought by the services range from baseball bats, footballs and boxing gloves to cribbage boards, sets of dominoes and jigsaw puzzles.

The whole program is costing about $98,000,000 annually, OWI reported.

"The army and the navy have each set up a separate program to push sports activities, as a strong contribution to the recreation and the morale of troops," the OWI report said. "So we have these programs become that both branches of the service have set up purchasing systems resembling those of big mail order houses to channel the procurement of equipment, games and musical instruments."

"The army and the navy buy about 90 per cent of all sports and game equipment produced in the United States, and as a consequence civilians can expect little or no increase for the present in the amount left over for their use," OWI concluded.

Athletes of the 29th division in Normandy have been doing even better on the battlefield than in sports arenas. Lt. Forrest Ferguson, former footballer from Tallahassee, Fla., won a Distinguished Service Cross for heroism under fire on D-Day and T.Sgt. Bill Dircks of Baltimore, divisional heavyweight boxing champion, won a Bronze Star in an encounter with a houseful of snipers.

Capt. Taylor Drysdale, former Michigan swimming star, won the 100-yard backstroke in 1:18 and led two victorious army relay teams in a recent swim meet in London.

And Col. Ray Stecker, former West Point football star and an advocate of athletics for army personnel, demonstrated the value of sports recently when he pitched a headquarters official softball team to a 2-1 victory over the enlisted men and elated a home run to win his own game.

Just Like Home

T Sgt. Billy Goodrich, who used to write sports in Brooklyn, reports from a Pacific Island: "Now I know how it feels to be yelled at: 'Kill the umpire!'" A few days ago I worked my first ball game as an umpire. From now on my sympathies will be with the umps. Gosh, such razzing.

Two former college football stars, now serving with Marine aviation units who recently got together in the South Pacific are captains Ernie Nevers (Stanford) and Dick Fisher (Syracuse). . . . in post-war baseball watch cut for Cpl. Izzy Perry, 20, of Oakland, Calif., who is playing lots of softball with a Leatherneck team hereabouts. . . . And for crumby sakes, can't you get in there and patch for the Dodgers?"

Getting His Wish

Writing from somewhere in Italy, Lt. Jerry Kivier, former Penn State sailor, said he'd like to engage in service track meets soon, such as the big one in Rome he had heard about.

Jerry also expressed a desire to be with Sweden's Gunnel Haegg and Arne Andersson when they visit America. . . . At the rate American troops are traveling in France, Jerry may be getting some good cross country workouts and he'll have to pull up to keep from running into Haegg on the other side of Germany.

India In Par

Note on a golf tournament in India from Sgt. John Derr, former Greensboro, N. C., sport scribbler: "Saw a Sun Snead golf shot at the cinema tonight at 7:20 and at 7:45. I was out on the course practicing so it's hard to tell. Got a few pointers that may help in the tourney I'm in the midst of.

Johnny Bulla, my die-hard buddy from Greensboro, played in the inaugural tourney in Philadelphia in May and sent me the used balls with which he played them. They got here the day before I qualified, so I credit these tournament-tested balls with my satisfactory score. Now if I could only hit them like Bulla does, I'd be okay."

ARMED FORCES GET BULK OF SUPPLIES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(P)—The armed services now are purchasing fully 90 per cent of all sports and game equipment produced in the United States—and civilians will have to be content with their present meager supply yet a while.

Summarizing data collected from the army and navy, the Office of War Information disclosed today that the war department annually buys enough baseball equipment to outfit 50,000 regular teams and twice as many softball outfits. Navy purchases could field 11,000 hardball and 22,000 softball teams.

Sports and recreational equipment bought by the services range from baseball bats, footballs and boxing gloves to cribbage boards, sets of dominoes and jigsaw puzzles.

The whole program is costing about $8,000,000 annually, OWI reported. "The army and the navy buy up about 90 per cent of all sports and game equipment produced in the United States, and as a consequence civilians can expect little or no increase for the present in the amount left over for their use," OWI con-

U. S. NET SUPERIORITY FACING CHALLENGE OF THREE FOREIGN STARS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(P)—The weakest field to enter the National Tennis Championships in many years may produce the best chance for a foreign triumph since England's Fred Ferry beat Don Budge in the 1936 final.

That's the picture drawn by Holcombe Ward, United States Lawn Tennis Association president, of the 1937 National Championships to start next Wednesday and end Labor Day at Forest Hills.

The foreign "threat" consists of three players—Ecuador's bounding Pancho Segura, and the Vega brothers, Rolando and Armando, of Mexico—but Ward believes they may take both the singles and doubles titles.

Segura, who has won most of the summer tournaments, is one of two players to beat in singles. The other is Navy Lt. Den McNeill, the 1936 National champion.

Last year's winner and runner-up, Lt. Joe Hunt and Ensign Jack Kramer, were kept out of the tourney by naval duties.

Contenders in the men's singles include Billy Talbert of Indianapolis, Segura's leading rival this summer; fifth-ranked Lt. Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, Sgt. Frankie Parker, time-tested Sidney Wood Jr., and a few promising young players.

Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, two-time women's singles winner, has performed inconsistently in the summer tournaments and the next five in the rankings are conceded chances.

Twice runner-up to Miss Betz: Doris Hart, Margaret Osborne, Dorothy May Bundy and Mary Arnold.

S.E.C. TO DISCUSS ELIGIBILITY RULES

Return Of Ex-Service Men To Sports Activity Will Be Clarified

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 25.—(P)—Rules governing athletic eligibility of ex-service men attending Southeastern Conference schools under the "GI Bill of Rights" will be among matters discussed at a post-war planning meeting of conference members, to be held here Tuesday through Thursday.

Mike S. Conner of Jackson, Miss., conference athletic commission said he believed the conference probably would permit those whose education was interrupted by armed service "to participate in inter-collegiate athletics at any institution they may choose."

Such participation, he added, would be counted as part of the individual's tenure of eligibility—one freshman year and three varsity years. They would also be excluded from the requirement that athletes, in normal times, complete their competition within a period of five consecutive years, beginning with initial matriculation.

Last year the conference suspended the rule barring senior college transfer students from participation. Meeting here on June 16, the rule was amended to bar students enrolled at member schools at any time between May 19, 1944 and May 19, 1945, from playing during that fiscal year at any other member school.

The amendment excluded students of schools suspending football for 1944 and any student enlisted in the armed forces. The rule also does not apply to students transferring from non-conference school. (The conference funded the University of Georgia $20,000 for the alleged use last year of students who transferred from another conference.)

Approximately 60 delegates, at least five from each of the 12 conference members, are expected to attend the three-day meeting.

The Allstate Tirenens, champions of the Red Shield Senior Softball League and winners of 23 straight contests, face the combined power of the best-talent available from other teams of the Red Shield loop this afternoon in the second round of the National A. A. U. outdoor swimming championships.

Young and Nell Stewart, a pair of young women-wrestlers, meet here today night in the second successive women-starring program at Gus's arena, and Promoter Kallio predicting another packed house to see the battling beauties in action.

Miss Young, a buxom young woman of Sand Springs, Okla., won a tight 4-3 victory over Miss Miller, 19, the past week, but indications are that Miss Stewart, Birmingham, Ala., may be more than a match for the temperamental Okie girl.

The Misses Stewart and Young on anything near the show the art-Miller scratchfest produced the fans can plan on a rousing t of entertainment and excitement.

Girls let nothing stand in their way as a rule, and resort to every method possible in the winning of a fight. Scratching, biting, pulling, kicking and slugging is almost natural with the Amazon of the ring.

It has been the custom to or reservations and accept payment at the gate on the night of the first Thursday, however, many such seats were never claimed by persons who asked that the seats saved for them. Some confusion experienced in holding the unclaimed seats will go strictly first come, first served cash basis.

HAWAIIAN CLAIMS 2ND SWIM CROWN

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Aug. 26.—(P)—Tiny Kee Nakama, Ohio State University's Hawaiian star, annexed his second free-style title, and youthful Joe Verdeur of Philadelphia easily retained his breast stroke crown in the second round of the National A. A. U. outdoor swimming championships.

Nakama, who set a new 1,500-meter record last night, upset defending champion Gene Rogers of Columbia University in the 400-meter free style.

Verdeur, the meet's only other defending titlist, who is representing the North Branch Y. M. C. A. of Philadelphia, coasted to victory in the 300-meter breast stroke, touching in 2:46.3.

Two other new champions were crowned as Jack Woodson of the Oakland, Calif., Swimming Association topped Adolf Kieler's undefended 100-meter back stroke title, and a youthful quartet from Camp Chikopee, Ont., grabbed the 300-meter free style record, won by Yale last year.

Nakama went to the front at the start of the 400-meter event and never was headed, winning over Rogers by 25 meters. The Columbia University ace was pressed to take second from Ross Bean of Oakland, Calif., and 13-year-old Jimmy McLane of Akron, Ohio, who finished third and fourth respectively.

STARS CHALLENGE ALLSTATE POWER

Red Shield Champs Meet All-Stars In Double Header At Casino Park

The Allstate Tremen, champions of the Red Shield Senior Softball League, and winners of 25 straight contests, face the combined power of best talent available from other teams of the Red Shield loop this afternoon when they meet the loop's All-Stars, manned by Tony Anzalone.

The All-Stars and Allstate have scheduled a double header benefit program with the first game starting at 2:30 o'clock at Casino Park.

Jos Kilcoyne and Bob Cohen, who pitched the Tremen to the Red Shield crown, will probably work this afternoon's games for Allstate. Ira Bobo and El Harcourt are the choices of Manager Anzalone for mound duty.

The roster of All-Star players has been announced as Eddie Bowles, "Dub" Stewart, Irvin, Ralph Marjou, "Butch" Martin and Arza lone from the ranks of the Hunt and Whitaker Sports; Maffie, Braud, Butler, Alvin Fleming, Andy Canal, Donovan and Bobo from the Red Shield team; and Massey, Weis, and Harcourt from the Commandos.

Anzalone announced the starting lineup for the opener as Braud, catcher; Irvin, centerfield; Bowles, left-field; Massey, third base; Donovan, second base; A. Canal, shortstop; Maffie, first base; Marjoueaux, roving shortstop; Fleming or Butler, right field; and Bobo, pitcher. The lineup may be about the same for the nightcap with a battery of Harbour and Weis.

The Allstate lineup will likely include Stan Passman, Bernie Van, Manager "Chuck" Kroll, Mulhearn, Kilcoyne, Sterling McClain, Ray Spicer, Wunsch, Mason Bass, Coonrad, Hal Willis, and Cohen.

The champs, who Thursday defeated the Selman Officers' All-Stars, 2 to 1, and meet the same team again Tuesday at the army post, have had little to say about what to expect at today's program.

But Manager Anzalone predicts the All-Stars will win both games and snap the Allstate string of victories.

ELECTORS BOUND TO NO CANDIDATE

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 26.—(P)—Louisiana students of constitutional law expressed the opinion today that an independent-minded presidential elector who might choose to cast his vote in the electoral college for other than his party's choice could legally do so.

But, they said, he would be upsetting the weight of a century of political customs of following the party choice while basing his own action on his constitutional rights.

Comments were made in connection with the current so-called revolt against the New Deal in Texas, Mississippi and some other Southern states which has had repercussion in Louisiana.

The authorities pointed out that the people vote directly for the electors in the general election and to the electors is reserved the right in the electoral college of electing the president with their votes.

Thus in the electoral college the so-called "rebel" votes from two or three state conceivably might swing the majority vote needed for election of a president one way or the other, if the result is close.

The electors themselves are candidates in the November election but it is usually foregone conclusion in overwhelmingly-Democratic Louisiana that Democrats will be chosen.

The question of electors voting for their party nominee is purely a matter of custom and tradition," commented Ray Forrester, professor of constitutional law at Tulane University. "But it appears those persons who have for years criticized Roosevelt for breaking traditions are now endeavoring to break one of the very oldest ones themselves," he said.

One Louisiana elector was quoted as saying he felt morally obligated to cast his vote the way most of the people who elected him voted. Another Louisiana Democratic elector was quoted as saying he would not vote for Roosevelt and Truman, the Democratic nominees for president and vice-president.

Heedless of appeals by union officials to return to their jobs, some 8,500 Highland Park plant employees have stayed away from work since Friday in a walkout which followed a work stoppage Thursday by maintenance tool grinders.

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—(P)—Regional war labor officials today ordered flat strikers at the Highland Park plant of the Ford Motor Company to end a walkout which has threatened to shut down the company's entire aircraft production in the area.

Such a shutdown would make more than 50,000 workers idle.

Heedless of appeals by union officials to return to their jobs, some 8,500 Highland Park plant employees have stayed away from work since Friday in a walkout which followed a work stoppage Thursday by maintenance tool grinders.

L.T.I. ENDING SUMMER SCHOOL

Class Gets Diplomas; Many Improvements Made Past Year

The Louisiana Training Institute is graduating students at the first summer school which has just closed, and which all boys attended. Diplomas were awarded to the group which completed the official course of Louisiana standard high schools. Announcement was made by the principal, K. L. Youngblood. No commencement was held, as the five graduates attended and participated in the regular June commencement.

The graduating class comprised: Richard Mahnken, Shreveport, valedictorian; Leonard Oliver, Shreveport, salutatorian; Gordon Renau, Shreveport, and R. B. Wade, West Monroe.

Mr. Youngblood stated that the class as a whole is the finest scholastically that the institute has ever had. There were only three and a fraction points between the valedictorian's average and the 90 average for the senior year of the fourth student.

One of the outstanding achievements at the local institution has been the installation of a summer school, officially approved by the state department of education to aid boys in the institute to advance in academic education. Statistics disclose that the average boy entering the school is behind in his studies. During the past summer, 161 boys received training in 13 vocational trade subjects as well as in the standard high school and elementary grades.

Among many advancements made were: from grade one to grade two, two students; from grade two to three, seven; from grade three to four, four; from grade four to five, one; from grade five to six, two; from grade six to seven, seven; from seven to eight, eight; from seven to nine, two; from eight to nine, seven; from nine to 10, 16; from nine to 10, seven; from 10 to 12, two; graduated from high school, four.

This school will be one of the first schools in the state to introduce the 12-grade system.

Mr. Youngblood, now with the institution for his fifth year, stated that many improvements have been made in the school the past year. Added now is a four-year agricultural course for boys who prefer farming. This institute is well equipped to teach agriculture, having an extensive farm, gardening, dairy industry, beef herd, swine herd, poultry yard and other facilities. ## VET HOSPITAL PROJECT FOR MONROE IS WELL RECEIVED

Local Delegation Gives Washington Figures; V. F. W. Honors Hunt

C. A. Hunt, past commander of the Rodney J. Hobbs Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, upon his return from Washington and Chicago, reports a highly successful trip. He went with Mayor H. H. Bennett and Secretary George D. Holland, of the Chamber of Commerce, as member of a special delegation to confer with army and navy officials concerning the erection of a federal veterans' hospital in Monroe. Details of the needs for such hospital and the availability of Monroe site, were ably presented through a comprehensive brief that Mr. Holland submitted to Gen. Frank Hines, Colonel Tripp and others.

On the return trip, Mr. Hunt stopped off at Chicago to attend the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars which despite wartime conditions, was exceptionally well attended. The attendance was exceptionally large due to the presence of a large number of men recently honorably discharged from the present World War.

The encampment voted 2,600 to 1,990 not to admit women from the armed service into the organization at present, delaying such action until later on when the matter will again be given consideration when the war is ended.

Another feature of the trip was the presentation of a Good Citizenship Medal to Don McNeil, noted radio personality and master-of-ceremonies at the Blue Network Breakfast Club program in Chicago. Mr. Hunt had the honor of presenting the medal representing the several Louisiana posts and Monroe, Monroe was given considerable nation-wide publicity due to this broadcast presentation.

The Good Citizenship Medal was presented to Mr. McNeil for the good will and entertainment he passes on, bringing sunshine into hundreds of thousands of homes throughout the United States and Canada. The presenting of the medal to Don McNeil was appreciated by the Nation's Broadcasting officials who were free in expressing their appreciation to Mr. Hunt for the V. F. W. delegates' action in the effort. A Miss Cook from West Monroe in attendance at the breakfast club program not knowing the intended presentation was to be made, was called on at the end of the presentation and complimented Mr. Hunt for putting Monroe and West Monroe on the map. Her address and parents names were not secured account of the crowds pushing their way out of the N. B. C. Blue Network theater on the 19th floor of the Merchandise Mart where in this building over 25,000 people are employed and which covers two Chicago blocks and one long block wide.

Pointing out that Truk "is merely four hours by plane to Saipan" and that "the enemy is within a stone's throw," the domestic broadcast declared that "constant raiding enemy planes come night and day."

It was "not rare," the broadcast said, for enemy planes to "aid continuously for seven hours, from seven in the evening to two in the middle of the night."

"The exhaustion of our pilots and the loss of aircraft are inescapable," Tokyo declared.

HARDSHIPS OF JAPS ON TRUK DETAILED

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(P)—A report of the hardships of the Japanese armed forces on the isolated naval base at Truk in the central Carolines was given to the people of Japan by a Tokyo broadcast reported today by United States government monitors.

The broadcast described the "exhaustion" of Japanese pilots obliged to "manage with a limited number of fighters" and reported that "wastelands" in the atoll had to be reclaimed to establish "self-sufficiency of food."

U. S. PRISONERS OF WAR TO GET $10 RELIEF PAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(P)—A monthly allotment of $10 relief money may be sent to each American prisoner of war in the Philippines under an agreement the state department has negotiated with the Japanese through the Swiss government.

The money must be sent by the Swiss through Japanese military channels, the agreement specifies. Similar funds have been going to interned American civilians in the Philippines since last fall.

The agreement applies also to captured merchant seamen, whom the Japanese consider prisoners of war.

State department officials said the Tokyo government has indicated to the Swiss that it was considering proposals for allowing relief funds to go to American war prisoners and interned civilians in the Netherlands East Indies.

WEBB IS NAMED STATE ATTENDANCE SUPERVISOR

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 26.—(P)—State Supt. of Education John E. Cox announced today the appointment of Godron A. Webb of Baton Rouge as state supervisor of attendance, effective Sept. 1.

The position, Cox said, was created under the provisions of Act 239 of 1944, the compulsory school attendance law, which was supported by numerous educational and civic organizations. Duties of the supervisor of attendance, he said, include the enforcement of this law and the supervision of the work of visiting teachers throughout the state.

Webb has been connected with the state department of education since March, 1941, as assistant supervisor of Negro schools and assistant supervisor of materials and instruction. From 1925 to 1941 he served as principal of the Brusly High School.

ACE IS REPORTED PRISONER OF WAR

Gabreski Captured After Taking 'One More Crack' At Nazis

A. U. S. FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 26.—(P)—Lt. Col. Francis Gabreski, 23, American ace from Oil City, Pa., was captured by the Germans in taking "one more crack" at a Nazi airfield during a strafing mission he did not have to make, fellow airmen at his base disclosed today.

Gabreski, Thunderbolt squadron commander who destroyed 23 German planes in the air and three ground, was ready to return to the United States on a 30-day leave and be married, but volunteered for another mission on July 20.

He led a squadron of 16 planes to a German airfield near Koblenz where they destroyed nine Heinkels on the ground. Gabreski got one of them—his 23rd.

The colonel's flight was ready to leave when he decided to make another run on the airfield. Swooping over very low to avoid anti-aircraft fire, he struck a clump of trees at the end of the field. Then the propeller of his P-47 hit the ground, probably damaging it.

His flight companion saw him run from the plane apparently uninjured, and then turn back, obviously aiming at destroying his ship. But Thunderbolts in the air already were lined up and blew it up with their 30-caliber machine gun bullets.

Lt. Joe I. Popplewell of Liberty, Ky., said some of the flares wanted to land and pick up the colonel, but there was no nearby field big enough to accommodate a Thunderbolt.

"The last we saw of the colonel he was running toward some woods," said Popplewell.

In hope that Gabreski might be able to make his way out of Germany, Popplewell and a companion kept the story of the mission secret until word reached the base today that he was a prisoner of war.

Your Wood Is Needed Right Now

At every battle front in Europe, the Pacific, and Asia, wood carries the food, the munitions, the weapons, the blood plasma, 10,000 vital items in all—to supply and service our fighting men in the great offensives of 1944. Vastly increased quantities of sawlogs and pulpwood will be required to make the millions of boxes, crates, and cartons to "Back the Attack" in this year of decision. Much of the wood must come from farm timberlands. American farmers already are working long hours producing food for freedom, but the country depends upon them to get out the extra sawlogs and pulpwood for the boxing, crating, and packaging of supplies and implements which will hasten the end of this terrible war and bring our boys home to a better world. Cutting sawlogs and pulpwood is profitable. You are guaranteed ceiling prices for your wood. Complete specifications and marketing information will be furnished on request. C. A. Hunt, past commander of the Rodney J. Hibbs Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, upon his return from Washington and Chicago, reports a highly successful trip. He went with Mayor H. H. Benoit and Secretary George D. Holland, of the Chamber of Commerce, as member of a special delegation to confer with army and navy officials concerning the erection of a federal veterans' hospital in Monroe. Details of the needs for such hospital and the availability of Monroe as site, were able presented through a comprehensive brief that Mr. Holland submitted to Gen. Frank Hines, Colonel Tripp and others.

Gabreski, Thunderbolt squadron commander who destroyed 28 German planes in the air and three ground, was ready to return to the United States on a 30-day leave and be married, but volunteered for another mission on July 20.

He led a squadron of 16 planes to a German airfield near Koblenz where they destroyed nine Heinkels on the ground. Gabreski got one of them—his 31st kill.

The colonel's flight was ready to leave when he decided to make another run on the airfield. Swooping over very low to avoid anti-aircraft fire, he struck a clump of trees at the end of the field. Then the propeller of his P-47 hit the ground, probably damaging it.

His flight companion saw him run from the plane apparently uninjured, and then turn back, obviously aiming at destroying his ship. But Thunderbolts in the air already were lined up on it and blew it up with their 50-caliber machinegun bullets.

Lt. Joel L. Popplewell of Liberty, Ky., said some of the fliers wanted to land and pick up the colonel, but there was no nearby field big enough to accommodate a Thunderbolt.

"The last we saw of the colonel he was running toward some woods," said Popplewell.

In hope that Gabreski might be able to make his way out of Germany, Popplewell and a companion kept the story of the mission secret until word reached the base today that he was a prisoner of war.

Another feature of the trip was the presentation of a Good Citizenship Medal to Don McNeil, noted radio personality and master-of-ceremonies at the Blue Network Breakfast Club program in Chicago. Mr. Hunt had the honor of presenting the medal representing the several Louisiana posts and Monroe, Monroe was given considerable nation-wide publicity due to this broadcast presentation.

The Good Citizenship Medal was presented to Mr. McNeil for the good will and entertainment he passes out, bringing sunshine into hundreds of thousands of homes throughout the United States and Canada. The presenting of the medal to Don McNeil was appreciated by the National Broadcasting officials who were present in expressing their appreciation to Mr. Hunt for his work.

The broadcast described the "exhaustion" of Japanese pilots obliged to "maneuver with a limited number of fighters" and reported that "wastelands" in the stall had to be reclaimed to establish "self-sufficiency of food."

Pointing out that Truk "is merely four hours by plane to Saipan" and that "the enemy is within a stone's throw," the domestic broadcast declared that "constantly raiding enemy planes come night and day."

It was "not rare," the broadcast said, for enemy planes to "raid continuously for seven hours, from seven in the evening to two in the middle of the night."

"The exhaustion of our pilots and the loss of aircraft are inescapable," Tokyo declared.

U. S. PRISONERS OF WAR TO GET $10 RELIEF PAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(P)—A monthly allotment of $10 relief money may be sent to each American prisoner of war in the Philippines under an agreement the state department has negotiated with the Japanese through the Swiss government.

The money must be sent by the Swiss through Japanese military channels, the agreement specifies. Similar funds have been going to interned American civilians in the Philippines since last fall.

The agreement applies also to captured merchant seamen, whom the Japanese consider prisoners of war.

State department officials said the Tokyo government has indicated to the Swiss that it was considering proposals for allowing relief funds to go to American war prisoners and interned civilians in the Netherlands East Indies.

The candidates are Judge L. A. Smith of Holly Springs, judge of the Third Chancery District and Attorney W. W. Venable of Clarksdale, a former Fifth District congressman, circuit judge and district attorney at Meridian, where he grew to manhood.

Each received his law degree at the University of Mississippi and both are ardent supporters of that institution.

Judge Smith has served five times as president of the University Alumni Association, while Venable is a former president of the Mississippi State Bar Association.

The supreme court race is the only district contest left undecided by the July 4th primary, when the entire Mississippi incumbent house delegation in Congress was re-nominated.

Blaze EXTINGUISHED

A leaking gasoline line was blamed yesterday for a fire in a truck owned by Allen Ritter, according to Monroe firemen who were summoned to extinguish the blaze. Firemen said the fire occurred about noon at 434 DeSiard street but had been put out before their arrival.

The position, Coxe said, was created under the provisions of Act 239 of 1944, the compulsory school attendance law, which was supported by numerous educational and civic organizations. Duties of the supervisor of attendance, he said, include the enforcement of this law and the supervision of the work of visiting teachers throughout the state.

Webb has been connected with the state department of education since March, 1941, as assistant supervisor of Negro schools and assistant supervisor of materials and instruction.

From 1925 to 1941 he served as principal of the Brusly High School.

ACE IS REPORTED PRISONER OF WAR

Gabreski Captured After Taking 'One More Crack' At Nazis

A. U. S. FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 26.—(P)—Lt. Col. Francis Gabreski, 25, American ace from Oil City, Pa., was captured by the Germans in taking "one more crack" at a Nazi airfield during a strafing mission he did not have to make, fellow airmen at his base disclosed today.

Gabreski, Thunderbolt squadron commander who destroyed 28 German planes in the air and three ground, was ready to return to the United States on a 30-day leave and be married, but volunteered for another mission on July 20.

CHALLENGE

A HOST OF PRIMES, TARZAN BAKED AND BRISTLING WITH FURY, ROSE UP TO FIGHT TARZAN AND BULAK'S WAY.

"I HERITED BULLAR TRASHED TO TEE. THE JUNGLE CILLED HIS ARMS AND GALLILY STOOD HIS GROUND."

"WHO IS YOUR LEADER?"
TARZAN ASKED. "I WOULD SPEAK WITH HIM."

A MASSIVE BULL CAME FORWARD, GROWLING
AND BEATING HIS CHEST.
"DOMBAT CHIEF HERE—DOMBAT KILL!" HE THREATENED.

"I AM TARZAN, LORD OF THE JUNGLE." THE APE-MAN ANNOUNCED. "WE COME AS FRIENDS — NO KILL!"

DOMBAT GROWLING HORRIBLY, LUMPED
TOWARD THE APE-MAN'S DEFENSELESS FRIEND AND REACHED OUT TO ENCIRCLE
THE APE.

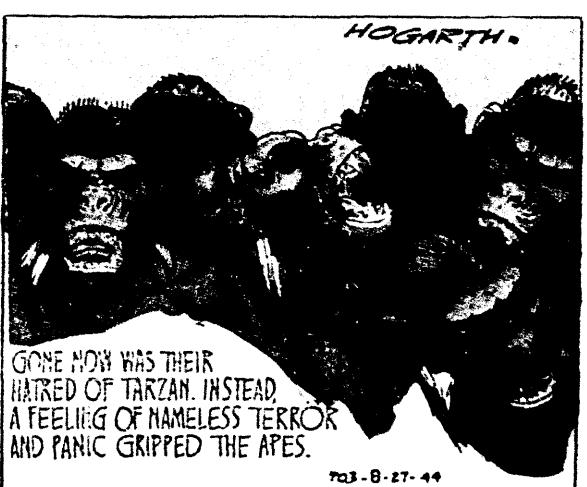

AS HE DID SO, TARZAN STEPPED BETWEEN AND DELIVERED A CLEVER BLOW WITH STUNNING FORCE. DOMBAT KEELLED AND FELL.

A WAVE OF SURPRISE AND ANGER SWEPT THE MENACING
HORDE. WITH ONE ACCORD THEY ROSE TO HURL THEMSELVES
UPON THE INTRUDERS.

BUT AS THEY CLOSED UPON TARZAN, THE APES SUDDENLY STOPPED SHORT. THE REPORT OF A DISTANT RIFLE SHOT CAME TO THEIR EARS.

HOGARTH.
GONE NOW WAS THEIR
HATRED OF TARZAN. INSTEAD,
A FEELING OF NAMELESS TERROR AND PANIC GRIPPED THE APES.

"WHY ARE YOU AFRAID?"
TARZAN ASKED. "THE THUNDERSTICK," ONE
CRIED. THEN THEY BROKE AND RAN.

RETURNING FROM A RECONNAISSANCE MISSION OVER ENEMY TERRITORY, EASY IS CHASED BY FIVE JAP FIGHTER PLANES...

LOOKS LIKE A BIT O' TROUBLE!

OKAY-- IF THEY WANT TO ARGUE!

BUT ODDS ARE TOO GREAT... EVEN AS ONE JAP FALLS IN FLAMES, TWO OTHERS POUR BULLETS INTO THE AMERICAN PLANE...

A SECOND LATER THE RECONNAISSANCE PLANE GOES INTO A SPIN...

HAH! THE AMERICAN BALES OUT! WHEN HIS PARACHUTE OPENS, I WILL FINISH HIM!

BLAZES! MY CONTROLS ARE GONE!

HE TRIED TO MACHINE-GUN ME AND DIDN'T PULL OUT OF HIS DIVE SOON ENOUGH!

BEHIND JAP LINES, AND I HAVEN'T EVEN GOT K-RATIONS... I'VE BEEN IN WORSE SPOTS, BUT I CAN'T REMEMBER WHEN OR WHERE!

MIGHT AS WELL SAVE THIS CHUTE -- THE CLOTH AND THE CORD WILL BE USEFUL... WUP! SOUNDS LIKE SOMEBODY'S COMIN' THROUGH THE BRUSH!

CRACK! CRUNCH!

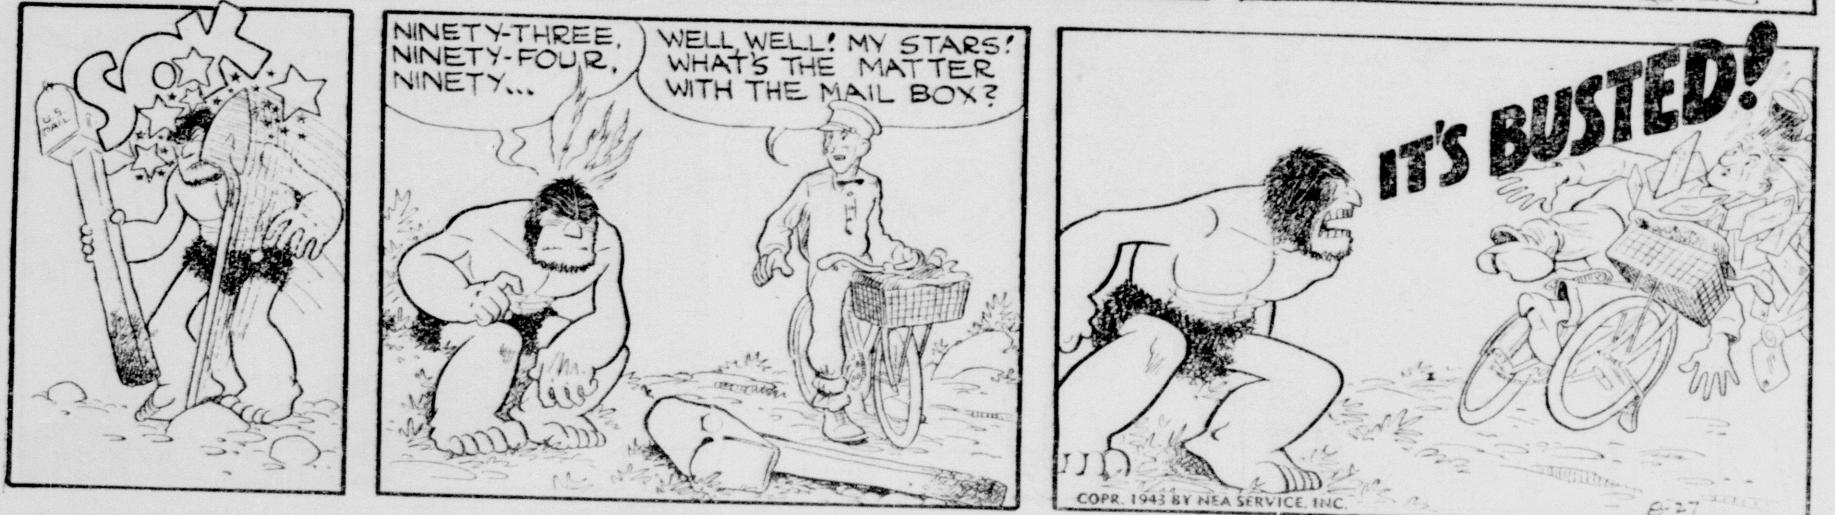

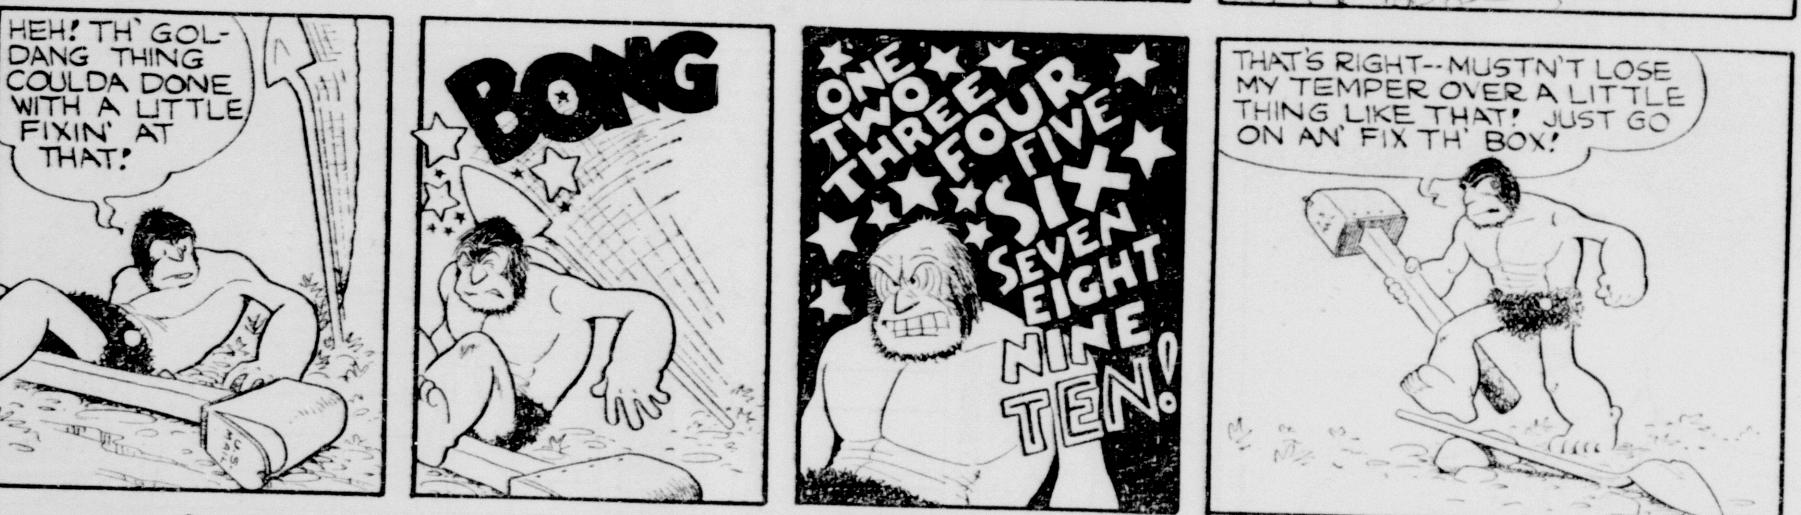

COULD BE A JAP, BUT I HOPE IT'S A NATIVE!

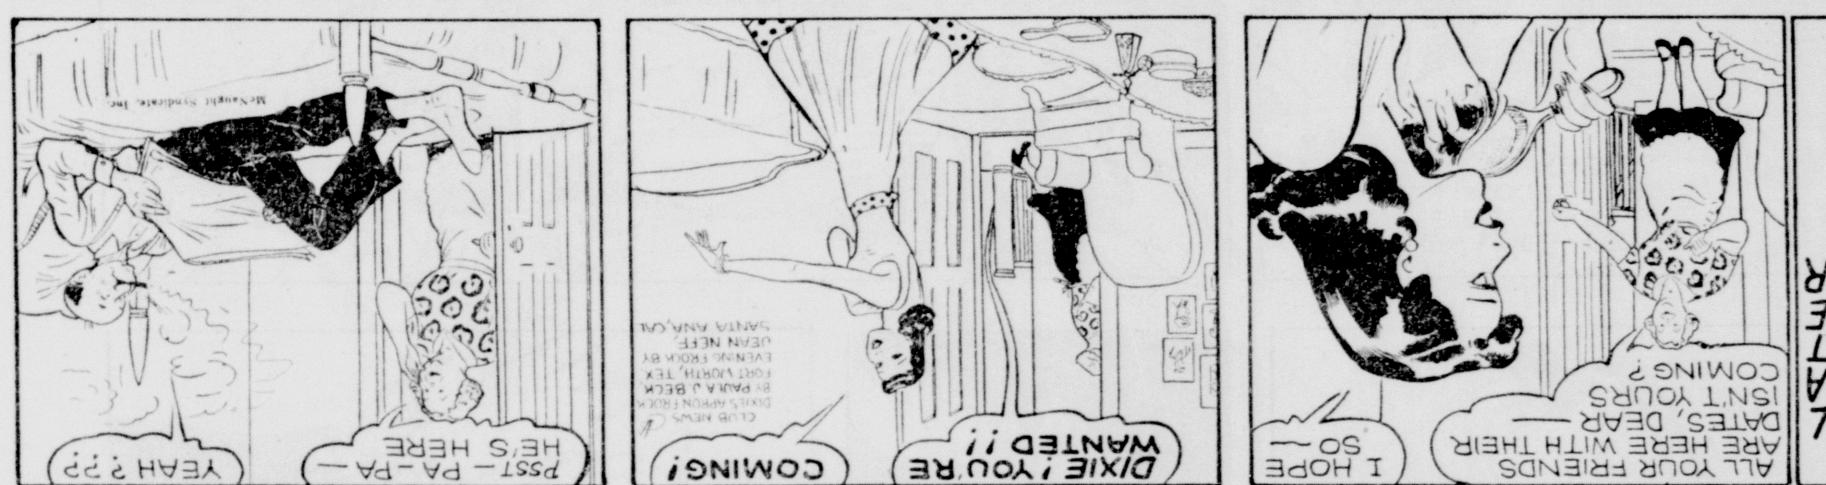

CRASH! CRACK! SWISH!

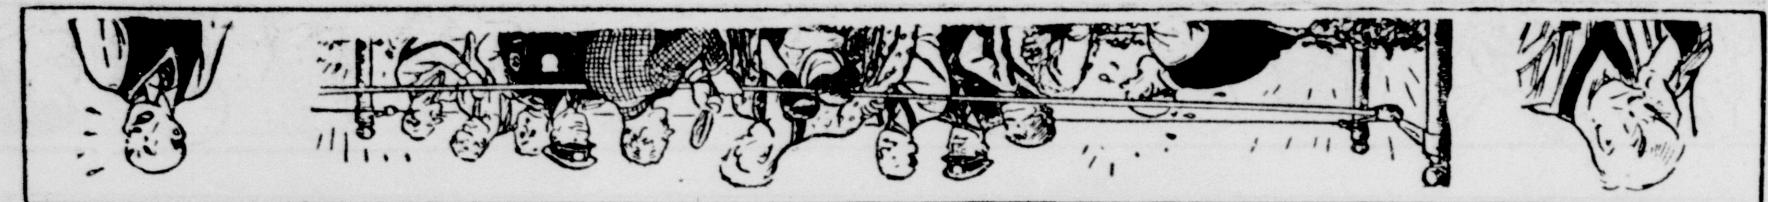

WHY, IT'S SERGEANT NEBRASKA STEVENS!
